

The Maine State Council is an affiliate of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM), a professional society with a membership of over 250,000 HR practitioners worldwide. More than 850 of these members live and work in Maine and are represented and supported by the Maine State Council. In addition, there are an additional 350+ HR professionals who are members of one of our 7 local chapters or participate in State Council-sponsored events.

Professional Development

SHRM offers professional development opportunities through a variety of certificate programs, conferences, and seminars. The Society hosts the largest annual conference & exposition devoted to the human resource profession as well as conferences focusing on employment law and legislative issues international HR, recruitment and retention, and diversity. Professional development is more than attending seminars and conferences. It includes certification as well. Certification indicates that an individual has mastered the body of knowledge he/she needs to do the job. Certification is handled through the Human Resource Certification Institute (HRCI) at SHRM headquarters.

Governmental Affairs

SHRM is your voice in Washington DC. The SHRM Governmental Affairs staff monitors legislative and regulatory actions on the federal and state levels that affect HR professionals. Working with volunteer leadership, SHRM determines positions on pending legislation and regulatory issues and then communicates them to Congress and governmental agencies on your behalf. Members help shape public policy and ensure that the needs and concerns of the human resource professionals are represented in the political decision making process through the HRVoice program, an online letter-writing service.
